Art and Creative Writing Workshop
For High School Students

RAFFMA, the Robert and Frances Fullerton Museum of Art at Cal State San Bernardino, will host a creative writing workshop for high school students. The workshop will use artwork on display at the museum and digital images of artworks as a starting point for practicing and strengthening critical thinking and improving writing skills. The writing exercises and assignments, to be taught by Jerry Tivey, will take place in and out of the classroom with instructor and peer critiques in class.

Thursdays - Jan. 30-Mar. 6
5:30-6:30 p.m.

Instructor: Jerry Tivey, Cajon High School English and journalism teacher.

Limited space available. Registration form and a $25 workshop fee are required. Discount available for Friends of RAFFMA. Registration forms will be accepted on a first-come, first-served basis.

Students under 18 must have written consent from their parent or legal guardian.

Download a registration form at our website: raffma.csusb.edu or pick one up at the museum front desk.

For more information, contact RAFFMA’s education and outreach coordinator at 909-537-7783, ptaylor@csusb.edu

Art and Creative Writing Workshop - Registration Form

Student: __________________________
Age: __ Grade: ___ School: ________________
Parent/Guardian: ____________________________________________
Address: __________________________________________________
City/State/Zip: __________________________ E-mail: ___________
Telephone: ________________________________

Signature of legal guardian (for students under 18):

______________________________

Please return registration form and payment of $25 (discount available for Friends of RAFFMA) to: RAFFMA, CSUSB
5500 University Parkway, San Bernardino, CA 92407

Cash and checks accepted. Make check payable to: CSUSB (Memo: Art and Creative Writing Workshop)